Greetings!

With the outbreak of the COVID-19 aka The Coronavirus, we wanted to reach out to our current and potential clients. Our number one concern is the safety of not only our staff, but you and your employee(s) as well. We have been closely monitoring the situation through Government agencies including but not limited to, www.travel.state.gov, www.cdc.gov, and www.whitehouse.gov.

Many companies have placed travel bans on their employees for the time being. We have made the decision based off factual and accurate information to make changes to our 2020 Public Seminar schedule. We could not in good faith continue with the current schedule as the health and safety of all is a number one concern to us.

If you or one of your employees are currently enrolled into a seminar, please keep an eye on our website and any communications that may be released. Due to the nature of the situation, cancellation fees are being waived for the time being and you may transfer your training to another location of your choice based off the revised 2020 Calendar.

You can view our revised schedule at the below link:

We sincerely appreciate you and your business. Please continue to follow the guidelines presented by the CDC and stay safe when traveling.

If you have any questions, you may reach out to me using the information below.

Sincerely,

Sarah Barrick
